DRUNK CRAZED MAN
ATTEMPTS THREE

John Black Attacks James Laughlin With Razor in Bingham Saloon.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Bingham, Dec. 8.—One man is in jail and another in the hospital as a result of an attempt made upon James Laughlin, an employee of the Boyer Construction company, by a fellow workman, in the last Chance saloon at Coperton, at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Laughlin, with John Black, both employees of the same company, had drawn their pay this morning intending to go to Salt Lake together this afternoon. As they stopped at the saloon, Laughlin requested Black to wait for him there while he went to the headquarters of the Utah Construction company to get a hospital ticket. Returning to the saloon, Laughlin entered and crossed to the other side of the room when, without a word of warning, Black drew a razor and sprang on Laughlin, inflicting a severe gash on the right side of his face before the bartender could interfere.

Ernest Buhlow, the bartender, as soon as he saw Black's intention, rushed from behind the bar and delivering a sleep-producing punch to the jaw of Black put an end to the attack. Black was held until the arrival of the police, when he was taken to the Bingham jail. Laughlin was taken to the hospital of Dr. C. S. Ray, where the gash was sewed up. Fifteen stitches were required to close the wound, the gash extending from the corner of his mouth to the back of the neck, missing the jugular vein by a narrow margin.

So far as can be learned both men were on the best of terms, and no trouble or ill feeling existed between the two leaving no explanation for the attack, other than that Black had become crazed with drink.
